

EPSON®

Certified Training Programme

Brought to you by

 PartServe
Channel Support

Welcome to PartServe:

Introduction

PartServe Channel support was appointed by Epson, as the authorized training partner, in South Africa in August 2004. We realize that people are at the heart of your business, and here at PartServe training we want to help you get the competitive edge. We have found that the continual development of our people has improved our performance as an organization. Many clients and centres we have trained have shown an increase in their effectiveness and general employee moral.

Continually updated

This IT sector as we know, is a fast growing, ever-changing industry. Our courses mould and adapt to the changes every step of the way. The way we train is updated and developed using your suggestions and opinions.

Qualification

All attendees of the PartServe courses will have to sit a final test set by Epson in order to be certified as an Epson trained engineer.

Benefits

All certified Epson Engineers are given a specific log on to the Epson Technical web site where service manuals and technical bulletins can be accessed.

Value

Our courses are competitively priced and available for all, with group booking discounts available.

Location

All EPSON courses are run from our Johannesburg Head Office in Sandton, The courses listed are also available onsite at your premises (price on application)

The training team

All EPSON trainers have many years of practical experience in the IT and printing industries, and they use this experience to produce courses with a high level of interaction and practical content.

Bridging the potential gap

People are at the heart of your business, and here at EPSON training we want to help you get the competitive edge. We have found that the continual development of our people has improved our performance as an organization. Many clients and centres we have trained have shown an increase in their effectiveness and general employee moral.
